Voters on Tuesday decided the nominees for U.S. Sen. Roger Wicker's seat and U.S. Rep. Steven Palazzo's 4th Congressional seat in the 2018 primary elections.

Early in the evening, the Associated Press declared Wicker and Palazzo the winners in their respective races.

U.S. Senate Democratic candidates David Baria and Howard Sherman will face off in a runoff scheduled for June 26.

As of press time Tuesday, with 89 percent of precincts in Mississippi reporting, Baria received 24,034 votes to Sherman's 24,332.

A total of 3,937 votes - including absentee ballots - were cast in Hancock County.

However, due to issues with a faulty memory card from the Diamondhead West precinct, the total number of votes will be calculated Wednesday, Hancock County Circuit Clerk Karen Ruhr said. Staff will travel to Diamondhead Wednesday morning to retrieve the machine and count the votes.

Unofficial results in Hancock County as of Tuesday evening are as follows:

In Hancock County, U.S. Senate Democratic candidates: Baria received 1,110 votes; Jensen Bohren received 22 votes; Jerone Garland received 13 votes; Victor Maurice, Jr. received 22 votes; Omeria Scott received 29 votes; and Howard Sherman received 50 votes.

In Hancock County, U.S. Senate Republican candidates Richard Boyanton received 753 votes and Wicker received 1,895 votes.

In Hancock County, in the 4th Congressional District race, Republican candidate Palazzo received 1,770 votes and E. Brian Rose received 884 votes.

Jeremy Anderson, the Democratic candidate, received 1,031 votes.

Palazzo will face Anderson in the November election.

A 24-year-old Gulfport man was sentenced to 16 years in prison Monday and must pay more than $100,000 to his victims for a 2014 shooting incident at a Bay St. Louis bar.

Circuit Judge Christopher Schmidt sentenced Trey Hugh Tillery to two consecutive 20-year sentences, suspending 24 years, leaving 16 years to serve, followed by five years of supervised release. Tillery must also pay all court costs, plus pay $101,400 in restitution, Schmidt ruled.

In February, Trey Hugh Tillery pled guilty to two

Supers discuss obtaining study on Hancock County Utility Authority

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors on Monday discussed requesting a third-party study on the Hancock County Utility Authority.

Hancock County Board of Supervisors President Blaine LaFontaine said that last week, the utility authority hosted a workshop. There was discussion about requiring a study to provide direction to the cities about whether it's a benefit.

"There's been discussion about buying water and not buying water," he said.

LaFontaine said there have also been discussions about the true production of water costs and true maintenance costs for each entity.

"It appears over the past year, all entities agree that if a study was conducted to show them that it would be easier to save them general fund monies and if it was easier for them to buy water," LaFontaine said. "Bottom line, people just want to know, we need a proposal and plan to show us that there are benefits."

LaFontaine said that the cost of such a study would be about $100,000 to $150,000 and the "utility authority does not have the money to pay for it." It is requested that the board does, he added.

"I think a study is in dire need, I truly believe the utility authority can't continue to go on the way it's currently structured, for political reasons," LaFontaine said. "A lot of politics find their way into the utility authority."

LaFontaine said he wasn't seeking official action, but wanted the board to allow him and county administrator Eddie Favre to research firms and prices for a study.

Supervisor David Yarborough said if the board spends more than $150,000 and "if it's not to their (utility authority) benefit, then we wasted

5 new volunteers are sworn in as CASA Advocates

SEA COAST ECHO

BAY ST. LOUIS, MS, June 4, 2018)-CASA of Hancock County celebrated the induction of 5 new volunteers on Tuesday, May 22nd at the Leo Seal Center in Waveland. The Honorable S. Trent Favre conducted the swearing in ceremony.

CASA's newest volunteers, along with their families were greeted by CASA's Executive Director and applauded for their commitment to become part of the solution to Hancock County's foster care crisis. "CASA Advocates are well-trained, committed community members who remain focused on the needs of the child and provide the court with invaluable facts about the child and family they are working with," states Cynthia Chauvin, Executive Director. Following the induction ceremony guests enjoyed a delicious dinner sponsored by Mickey Lagasse of Compton Engineering.

Currently, there are 264 children in foster care in Hancock County. CASA of Hancock County is a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization that utilizes trained community members to advocate for children who through no fault of their own are involved in the complex and overburdened child welfare and youth court systems. Often there is not one consistent adult who is a voice in the child's life. A CASA volunteer provides individualized one-on-one advocacy and works with all agencies and parties involved to gather information and to provide an independent report for the Court with recommendations based solely upon the child's best interest.

With the addition of these 5 new CASA volunteers, the program will be able to serve an additional 5-7 families who are involved in the Youth Court and CPS systems.

CASA of Hancock County encourages community members to consider becoming a Court Appointed Advocate or a CASA. Training will begin in mid-August for our next group of volunteers. If you are interested in learning more about CASA the first step is to attend a one hour informational meeting. Please contact CASA at 228.344.0419 to reserve your spot at an upcoming informational meeting.

Documents must be pre-printed with the name and address of the student's parent or guardian.

One document must be one of the following: the

Securing Safety One Load at a Time

Transportation Commission proclaims June 6 as "Secure Your Load Day" in Mississippi

SEA COAST ECHO

JACKSON, MISS. - At first instinct, many begin fastening seatbelts for their children and themselves, but what about the load in the back of their pickup truck?

From 2011 to 2014, there have been more than 200,000 crashes caused by road debris, according to the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety. From those crashes, it was reported there were 39,000 injuries and 500 deaths during this same four year span.

The Mississippi Department of Transportation's (MDOT) top priority is the safety of the traveling public.

To help prevent crashes and fatalities caused by debris from unsecured loads, the Mississippi Transportation Commission proclaims June 6 as "Secure Your Load Day." The decision was unanimous by Commissioners Dick Hall, chair, Central District; Tom King, Southern District; and Mike Tagert, Northern District.

"Load-securing should be a standard practice of Mississippi motorists," said Melinda McGrath, P.E., MDOT Executive Director. "Debris from unsecured loads not only becomes a road hazard for other motorists but it also contributes to 40 percent of roadside litter. It is also illegal."

Motorists responsible for debris from unsecured loads could face fines up to $500 and up to six months in prison.

Mississippi motorists can help keep others safe and avoid legal troubles by:

1. Tying down the load with rope, netting or straps.
2. Tying large objects directly to the vehicle or trailer.
3. Covering the entire load with a sturdy tarp.
4. Not overloading the vehicle.
5. Always double checking the load to make sure it is secure.
6. Using safety chains when hauling trailers.

"Secure Your Load Day" is part of a nationwide effort of the Governors Highway Safety Association to raise awareness about the dangers of debris falling from vehicles. It was spearheaded by Robin Abel whose daughter was blinded by a piece of particle board that flew from the back of a moving trailer on Interstate 405 in Seattle, Wash.

"Secure your load as if everyone you love is driving in the car behind you," Abel said.

Times change, but politics really don't

Having been concerned about politics from the time I was a teenager, I have noticed a lot of reasons as to why many seek office.

If you think about it, there are some cases when a person is elected to an office that they begin to think that they are unbeatable in an elected position.

For sure that was the case of a countywide position held years ago by a very popular elected resident and he did not think that he had to worry.

His challenger really beat the bushes to and defeated the office holder.

Interestingly enough, the new office holder held the position until he retired years later after more elections.

Also the surprised candidate – who first thought he would win – came back winning another election after he went out and campaigned. He held that office until he retired.

I still miss the old political rallies that were held by candidates.

Some were put on by the candidates and were always well attended.

Even church fairs brought out many candidates and I miss those cake walks, too, at the church fairs.

Store bought cakes – in those days – were so different. I still remember the cakes my mother made from scratch for my brothers and myself.

My biggest problem with local elections is the fact that there are those who are not registered voters, or they are too lazy to vote.

Some of the worst complainers are usually those who say that their vote doesn't count.

It is very interesting how so many elected officials win by so few votes.

More residents need to become registered voters, and more registered voters need to do their civic duty and go to the polls when they're open.

I still remember many decades ago listening to someone complaining about a particular elected official, and when I asked the complainant if he was a registered voter, he said "no."

Until next time.

Ex-slaves are laying siege to Heaven's gates

Born a slave on June 27, 1766 in Saint-Marc in the French colony of Saint-Domingue (Haiti), Pierre Toussaint was brought to New York City by his owners in 1787. There he eventually gained his freedom and became a noted philanthropist to the poor of the city. When Toussaint died on June 30, 1853, his saintly life moved the New Yorkers to bury him in St. Patrick's Old Cathedral and to petition Rome to declare him Venerable as the first African-American candidate for beatification.

If we confine our search to the last two millennia, Pierre Toussaint's cause for beatification is the oldest. Who knows whether his will be the first to succeed? For instance, the cause of Saint Martin de Porres took a mighty long time: from his death in 1639 to beatification in 1837 to canonization in 1962. Thus, imagine the soothsayers of Las Vegas trying to handicap the odds on those I am going to name.

Augustus (aka Augustine) John Tolton was born a slave on April

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE by Fr. Jerome Ledoux, SVD

11, 1854 to Martha Jane Chisley and Peter Paul Tolton, both slaves from neighboring farms near Brush Creek, Missouri. Both were baptized and reared as Catholics.

When teen-aged Augustus expressed his interest in the priesthood, he was tutored privately by local priests, since U.S. Catholic colleges would not admit him.

In 1878, he entered the Franciscans at Saint Francis College, now known as Quincy University, and helped found Saint Joseph School for black children.

At the age of 26, he was accepted into the College of the Propagation of the Faith Seminary in Rome in 1880, intending to be a missionary in Africa. However, after ordination in 1886, he was assigned to his home diocese in Illinois as pastor of St. Joseph, a Negro Church in Quincy. He was the first black American ordained after Irish-Americans James Augustine Haley (1854) and brothers Patrick and Alexander.

In failing health during a record heat wave, Father Augustus Tolton died July 9, 1897 at the age of 43. In 2010, the Archdiocese of Chicago announced that it was introducing the cause of Father Augustus Tolton for canonization into sainthood.

Although foundress Henriette Delille died in 1862, onetime Congregational Leader, Sister Sylvia Thibodeaux, said, "We told Archbishop Hannan it wasn't until the 1960s that most people were even willing to consider Henriette's story."

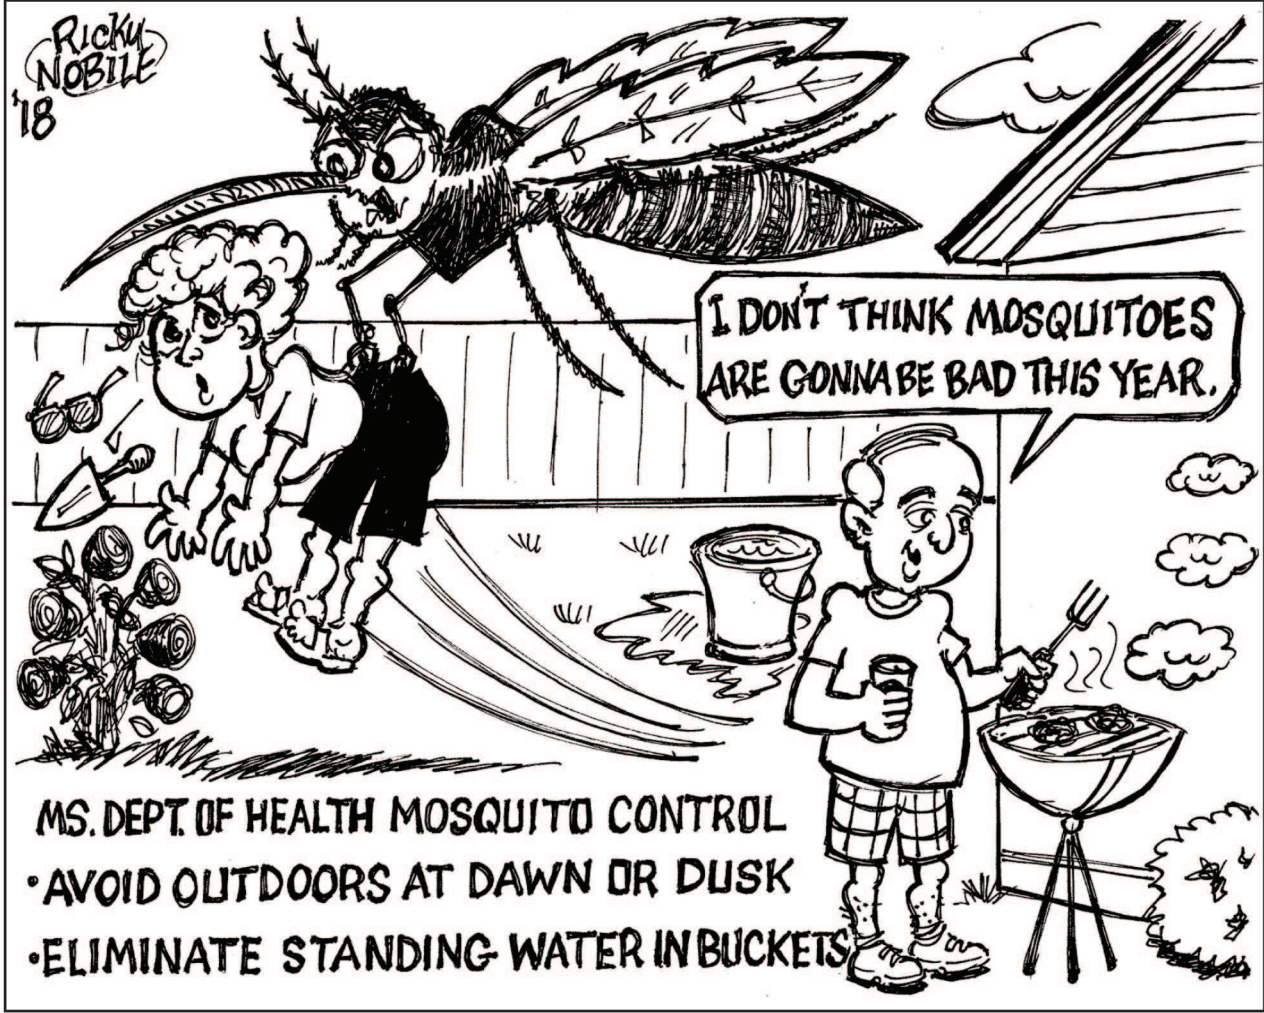

Therefore, it was not until 1988 that the Sisters of the Holy Family's Congregational Leader, Mother Rose de Lima Hazeur, S.S.F. – called Actor Causae (who petitions opening the cause) – formally requested Archbishop Philip Hannan of New Orleans to consider Henriette Delille for sainthood. So the Archbishop asked the Vatican for permission to open a special Archdiocesan Tribunal.

Almost a centenarian, Oblates of Providence foundress Elizabeth Clarissa Lang died in 1882, but it was not until 1991, with the approval of the Holy See, that Cardinal William Henry Keeler, Archbishop of Baltimore, officially opened a formal investigation of Lange's life to study it for her possible canonization.

Dynamic evangelist Sister Thea Bowman, FSPA (Franciscan Sisters of Perpetual Adoration) died in 1990. In February 2018, the Diocese of Jackson, Mississippi stated that it was starting research on the life, writings and works of Thea Bowman. This is the preliminary step to opening her cause

Rotary Exchange Student: A YEAR IN THE LIFE OF SOFYA

Guest Opinion

By Ashley Mayley
Bay St. Louis Rotary Club

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to pack up your life and move across the world for a year? I mean, I love packing up and going on a weeklong vacation or short trip to Florida. Honestly though, I've never really thought about packing up my life and moving to a different country until I joined the Rotary Club of Bay St. Louis. I can't even begin to imagine how different my life would be somewhere else.

Most of us have become so accustomed to the amenities we have here without batting an eye, we forget how it could be elsewhere; for example – peanut butter. No, this is not a joke. Peanut butter may sound trivial in comparison to all the other amenities we have, but did you know Russia doesn't have peanut butter? Ashley, how do you even know this? Well folks, for the last seven months, I've hosted Rotary's youth exchange student, Sofya Artamonova, and Sofya loves peanut butter!

Sofya came to us from Siberia, Russia, home of harsh winters averaging -13°F and Siberian Huskies. Here's a little fun fact for you – Siberia accounts for approximately 57% of Russia, which is comparable to the size of Canada. Also, around 65% of Russian territory is occupied by permafrost, meaning it never thaws. Basically, y'all it's cold there! So, Sofya packed up her warmest clothes and was sent to Bay St. Louis, MS – home of brown water, 60°F winters, 100% humidity like 95% of the time, beautiful beaches and the friendliest people with more love to give than she knew what to do with.

Her trip began as a 15-year-old with broken English, hopping a plane by herself, across cross the world to live with people she's never met. For me, that alone would be scary enough. However, for Sofya, her scary moment was a three-day delayed flight; "I am 15-year-old Russian girl who got stuck in New York basically with no language and means of communication. It ended up as after 8 more hours of waiting for my family's girlfriend from New Jersey pick me up from the airport and I spent a wonderful weekend with her and her family. So might be all of this was meant to happen?"

First Engine Assembled for DARPA and Boeing Reusable Experimental Spaceplane

SEA COAST ECHO

STENNIS SPACE CENTER, Miss.- Aerojet Rocketdyne has completed assembly of its first AR-22 rocket engine built for Boeing (NYSE:BA) as part of the U.S. Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA) Experimental Spaceplane program. This new Boeing spaceplane, called Phantom Express, is intended to demonstrate a new paradigm for more routine, responsive and affordable space access.

Aerojet Rocketdyne's AR-22 engine, derived from the Space Shuttle Main Engine that was designed from the outset for reusability, is the main propulsion for Phantom Express.

"Phantom Express builds on our legacy of reusable space flight experience to provide the ability to quickly augment and replace on-orbit capabilities, which face an increasing array of threats from potential adversaries," said Eileen Drake, Aerojet Rocketdyne CEO and president. "Our immediate task is to demonstrate this rapid turnaround capability for this engine on the ground, paving the way for a demonstration program."

The AR-22 engine is capable of generating about 375,000 pounds (170,097 kg) of thrust and was designed to fly 55 missions with service every 10 missions. This reusability feature makes the AR-22 ideally suited for Phantom Express. The reusable Phantom Express spaceplane will take off vertically and land horizontally. The vehicle will be equipped with an expendable second stage capable of placing up to 3,000 pounds (1,361 kg) of payload into low Earth orbit.

"The aircraft-like operations of Phantom Express are an important factor in the rapid turnaround of this spaceplane," said AR-22 Program Manager Jeff Haynes. "Additionally, the engine has a hinged nacelle that makes it easier to access and inspect the engines for rapid turnaround."

Aerojet Rocketdyne assembled the AR-22 at its facility at NASA's Stennis Space Center in Mississippi. The engine will undergo a series of daily hot-fire tests at Stennis starting this summer to demonstrate its ability to support the high flight rates envisioned for Phantom Express. These tests will also provide valuable insight that will be used to refine Phantom Express flight and turnaround procedures, while also informing the design requirements for the new ground infrastructure that Boeing is developing for the flight program.

Aerojet Rocketdyne, a subsidiary of Aerojet Rocketdyne Holdings, Inc. (NYSE:AJRD), is an innovative company delivering solutions that create value for its customers in the aerospace and defense markets. The company is a world-recognized aerospace and defense leader that provides propulsion and energetics to the space, missile defense and strategic systems, tactical systems and armaments areas, in support of domestic and international markets. As Sofya began settling in and starting school, she started to really experience our culture, food and downright friendliness. She enjoyed numerous events in Old Town, celebrated her Sweet 16 and shipped off to Oklahoma for a weekend Rotary event. She experienced Jazz Fest, Mardi Gras, plays, boat rides, beach days, dance recitals, softball games, prom, graduation and so much more.

Before I make this article like 15 pages long writing about everything she's done, our Rotary Club decided to ask her a few questions we thought everyone else would like to know. As you continue to her responses, just know I did not doctor these bad boys up. They are in wonderful Sofya English and we wouldn't have them any other way. Here you go:

A: What was a stereotype that you had coming to the U.S. that you discovered wasn't true:

S: This is a really tricky question. I would say that one main stereotype is that Americans don't like Russia, our president, make all kind of jokes and etc. But this is so false. Moreover, as soon as people figure out that I'm from the different country they even get more friendly and interacted in our conversations. Teenagers, my age don't really care about political stuff. The only question I usually get is: 'Is it for real THAT cold?' Older generations still remember the cold war but understand that all this already in the past so they become just interesting people to have a discussion all about it. Also, I need to say that not everyone knows who Putin is, about sanction, the filing of the rouble and that we're like in 'political fight' right now.

A: What is the biggest difference between the U.S. and Russia?

S: People in America are so friendly, polite and welcoming. This is the first thing that I faced once I got in New Orleans. And I'm not saying that people in Russia are rude or mean I'm just saying that starting a conversation with a total stranger would be not the best idea in Moscow.

A: How do you like Bay St. Louis and the U.S. so far?

S: I can't even describe how much I love it here! I just want to say that a lot of my friends take for granted the amazing beauty and atmosphere of this town, the opportunity to step on the beach and breathe in the smell of water each and every day. But they honestly don't do this. And when I tell them how much I love this town and everyone in it they like why would you even like it? I'm sorry you came to the small town of Mississippi, not like Los Angeles or New York. But I just thank my fate for sending me to lovely Bay St Louis.

A: What are the best and worst foods you've tried here?

S: For the record, I have to say that I haven't been eating meat for 3 years but I do eat fish and seafood so I'm really lucky to live a whole year on the Gulf Coast. So the worst food I've tried is boiled peanuts and fried pickles. Please do not blame me and ask why! I love peanuts and pickles in general but why would you boil nuts and fry vegetables??? The best food I've tried I can't fit in one list but these are my favorites: peanut butter, sweet potato, hushpuppy, mac and cheese, crawfish, seafood gumbo, crab and corn bisque and so on...Sounds super delicious, doesn't it? But the worst part of it that we don't have all this in Russia.

Sofya Artamonova

A: What's your favorite memory or experience since you've been here?

S: There are a lot! Honestly, I can find all kinds of great moments in every day I've spent here. But the best memory was my first Christmas with my awesome host family which made me feel like I was in some kind of fairytale. And unfortunately, there is not Christmas in Russia although you would be surprised what a big deal for us New Year is. A: What will you miss the most?

Before I give you her answer, this question teared me up the absolute most. I knew going into this she was only here for a short amount of time, but she has made her way into my family and our hearts and we are going to miss her dearly. Luckily enough, we'll see her soon.

S: I have no clue how I will leave my family, friends, this town and of course food. The best thing I can do right now just tell myself that I have a while here (even if I don't) so I'm not thinking about it all the time. But the good thing is my host family is coming visit me during New Year. And my host mom already knows all these things that she will ship me to Russia: peanut butter, cereal, make-up and of course a bunch of pictures and love!!

Next up for Sofya will be her month long tour of the U.S. then home to Russia mid-July. Before she leaves for her U.S. trip though, she'll get to experience Disney World in Orlando, Busch Gardens in Tampa, the Houston, TX area and Denver, CO. When she leaves the wonderful state of Mississippi, she'll leave with more friends, family and memories than she realizes.

I never thought I would be an exchange host mom, but it is honestly one of the best things I have ever done. My daughters found a new sister, I found a new daughter, my family got a new granddaughter, niece, cousin, etc. Sofya has changed our lives for the better, more than we imagined and I know we've changed hers. I can only hope that when she leaves, she never forgets us, because none of us will forget her. I also hope she doesn't go back saying, "That's what's up" with the 'finger-gun, side-mouthed wink' to everyone who will have no idea what she is talking about or what she is doing. Who am I kidding? I hope she does it; I just wish I was there to see their reactions!

So, to wrap things up – Sofya it was this club and town's honor to have you in our lives this year. You have made an impact on everyone. You will never be forgotten and we truly hope you visit in the future. You will always have second home here in Bay St. Louis, MS. We love you kid...

Phil Bryant appointed state Agricultural Commissioner Cindy Hyde-Smith to replace long-time Sen. Thad Cochran, who announced he was retiring. There will be a special election to fill the office in November.

Those who have qualified for the race include Hyde-Smith and Chris McDaniel, both Republicans; and Democrats including former Rep. Mike

Espy and Tupelo Mayor Jason Shelton. Other races

Mississippi is holding nonpartisan general elections for local judicial offices on November 6, 2018.

In the event that no candidate receives a majority of the vote in the general election, a runoff election will take place on November 27, 2018.

In the race for Chancery Judge, Place Three -- representing Hancock, Harrison and Stone Counties, the candidates include incumbent Judge Sanford "Sandy" Steckler; and attorney Dianne Herman Ellis.

$150,000."

"They all made agreements and all got their free money," he said. "They were all going to buy their water from the utility authority and all of a sudden, nobody did. I think all of them agreements should have been held, no matter who was sitting in office."

Yarborough added that spending tax payer dollars on the study would not be "fair."

Yarborough said he would be "for it," if the county has the authority to bind the utility authority to use the study.

Supervisor Scotty Adam said utility board members said that they are "in favor" of anything that is best for the county.

LaFontaine said if the county had a "one-stop shop utility service provider for the whole county, it would simplify."

Yarborough said that was the original intention.

"It's becoming critical, because we're 10 years away from a lot of these systems being implemented and probably going to start to reaching the life cycle where your maintenance costs are going to start failing and a lot of other things it's going to require," he said. "We have maybe three years to put together a master plan and if we don't put together a master plan, then I see this quickly unraveling, because there's going to be costs and no budget."

Board attorney Gary Yarborough said the utility authority would have to enter into an agreement on the front end, but he is, as of yet, unsure whether the board has that authority.

LaFontaine said the supervisors are responsible for the debt if the utility authority fails.

The board did not take official action, but did agree to allow LaFontaine and Favre to look into obtaining a study.

In other action:

The board discussed possible project requests for the 2020 Tidelands application. Requests discussed included McLeod

Park, Bayou Caddy Marina, derelict pier removal and boat launch. The board took no official action and will discuss the four projects to submit at the next meeting.

The board approved a motion to spread on its minutes several medical personnel changes in the sheriff's department: David Schmitt as a licensed practical nurse, full-time, at the rate of $20.50 per hour, effective June 14; Avebunta Dotson as a licensed practical nurse, part-time (will be used only as needed), at a rate of $20.50 per hour, effective June 14; Megan Ferguson as a licensed practical nurse, part-time (will be used only as needed), at a rate of $20.50 per hour, effective June 14. The proposed budget of $370,000 for medical services included the above salaries, LaFontaine said.

The board approved a motion to appoint Mark Henderson to the regional tourism Bureau.

The next board meeting is scheduled for June 18 at 9 a.m.

who was beating her mother. Emancipated in 1865, Greeley was a domestic servant to white families in Missouri, Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, but mostly near Denver where she earned the nickname Denver's Angel of Charity.

Her prodigious works are typified by her red wagon that she pulled with a load of whatever the poor might need, imploring the well-to-do to donate dresses that young girls could attend functions. She also urged devotion to the Sacred Heart, visiting the firefighters every month with pamphlets about the Sacred Heart.

Julia's cause for canonization was opened in December 2016 and on June 7, 2017 her mortal remains – the first layperson's – were moved to Denver's Cathedral Basilica of the Immaculate Conception. She is new among Servants of God in waiting.

for canonization, but it does not officially open her cause. Sister Bowman's is the most recent cause.

At the urging of Madeline Johnson, in Radio Ministry with the Archdiocese of Galveston-Houston for decades, I sought the niche of Julia Greeley in the parade of holy blacks in our midst. Since it is not freestanding, this pericope of her life shows where she is positioned in the parade of modern black saints of the last centuries.

Born in Hannibal, Missouri – shades of Mark Twain – between 1833 and 1848, Julia as a child was blinded in her right eye by the biting whip of a cruel slavemaster a press release after Tillery's guilty plea. "Officers arrived and located the defendant, who had been apprehended and disarmed by the bar owner and an employee on Court Street."

According to police at the time, Bouy's Bar owner Roger Caplinger, chased Tillery down Court Street, wrestled him to the ground near the what was then the Chamber of Commerce building, and detained him until police arrived.

"Witnesses stated that during the shooting, (Tillery) was standing on the entrance ramp and fired two shots from a .40 caliber Glock handgun into the leg and foot of the first victim who was standing on the front deck of the bar with his fiancé and friends," Smith said.

The victim was Brandon Treadway. "Physical evidence at the crime scene indicated that at least four shots were fired by the defendant into the bar," according to ADA Chris Daniel, who prosecuted the case. "The defendant alleged that the first victim struck him in the face and provoked the assault, however, no witness in the bar supported this allegation. The gunshot victim was transported by AMR to Memorial Hospital where he was treated for his wounds."

Daniel said Tillery's attorneys "expressed concerns regarding (his) mental health and petitioned the court for a psychiatric examination, which was the primary resin for delay in resolving the case."

Before accepting Tillery's plea Schmidt found him mentally competent to enter a guilty plea or proceed to trial, Daniel said.

"During the plea, Judge Schmidt admonished Tillery for his decision to bring a firearm to the bar and choosing to use it to commit the assaults," Smith said.

Schmidt ruled Monday that Tillery would get credit for time already served in the case. Tillery was immediately remanded to the Mississippi Department of Corrections.

News With a Twist coming back to the Bay

The Hancock County Tourism Bureau is inviting the entire community to a celebration "With a Twist" next Wednesday, June 13.

For the fourth year in a row, New Orleans television station WGNO is scheduled to bring a full production team to the historic Bay St. Louis Depot grounds where the Tourism bureau's offices are located, to broadcast its "News with a Twist" at 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. on Wednesday.

"They're going to be here to promote Hancock County," Myrna Green, manager of the Tourism bureau, said Thursday. "They've been filming around the area for the past two weeks, and they're already running promos for the broadcast. ... We want a big crowd to show up and bring fun signs."

The 'News with a Twist' crew will be there to interact with the crowd and interview Bay St. Louis Mayor Mike Favre, among others.

Green said WGNO will be showcasing several different aspects of Hancock County, including the Alice Moseley Folk Art Museum; the cafe at INFINITY Science Center; and the Bay St. Louis Municipal Harbor.

Part of the promotion is sponsored by the Tourism Bureau throughout a BP grant arranged by Visit Mississippi.

"It gives us an hour of primetime television promotion in New Orleans," Green said. "You can't hardly buy that kind of exposure." "The more people we have here for the broadcast, the better," Green said.

"The good of people is the greatest law."

OLA Volleyball Alumni return to show support

OLA Volleyball Alumni come back to show their support - Alumni of Our Lady Academy make the trek back to the school each summer in support of their dominant and elite volleyball squad and to show support of the young women that make up the current team. And, this year is no different. OLA head coach Mike Meyers commented, "Our Alumnae Night is always a fun night, and we all look forward to it each year. As usual, this year we had a great turn out of former players. It's really neat to see their parents, husbands and kids. And, believe it or not, they all still play volleyball very well. It means a lot to our current players to see these young ladies come back each year, and you can tell how much OLA Volleyball still means to them. Our current players realize that these are the people who made our program what it is today." The women that make up this group have cemented the foundation that has won 18 consecutive Division titles and 12 state championships (2002-03, 2006-09, and 2012-17). The former players who took part include front row (left to right) Cassidy Ketchum, Hannah Gest, Abby Koons, Alia Tayara, Kirsty Schmidt, Taylor Huey, Julie Reboul Holmes, Emily Meyers Corley, and Jeanie Fortenberry Wadsworth. Back row (left to right) Emma Funk, Madison Wawrek, Mary Rimmer, Lauren Lawhead, Gaelyn Gros, Sarah Anne Schloemer, Suzi Hand, Megan Smith, Shelby McConnell, Christy Parnell Chrisman, Kaylee Schmidt Henderson, Rachel Cranford Michel, Katherine Milner Lewis and their children.

Fishing "insanely" good so far

Besides the scattered storms, the fishing has been insanely good!!! Definitely gotta keep an eye on the weather this time of year. Our fleet at Shore Thing Fishing Charters has been running non stop, the entire month of May. There really has been no magic spot. It just seems everywhere has been holding speckled trout, red fish, black drum, triple tail, and white trout. Bay St Louis, Cat Island, the LA Marsh, and the near shore reefs, have all been fantastic!!!

Now that the kids should all be out of school, there is something yall might want to try. The Mississippi Charter for Hire Task Force suggested, and the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources approved, a state record category for a youth division (under 16 years old) for State Fishing Records. All of the necessary rules, regulations and applications can be found at dmr.ms.gov. This new division is a great opportunity to get young anglers involved in fishing.

Speaking from experience, the entire process is an absolute blast. My 8 year old daughter Margot and I have already logged in one state record. There have only been 2 species entered into the youth record books, so the categories are literally WIDE OPEN. The only requirement for size of the fish, is that it must be at least half of the size of the existing state record. For example, the Mississippi State Record speckled trout is 10 POUNDS. So, for in order for a youth record speckled trout to be submitted (since none have been yet), the trout must weigh at least 5 POUNDS.

SHORE THING FISHING REPORT

by Capt. Sonny Schindler

In the case of Margot's state record, we targeted a silver perch. The state record for this tiny member of the drum family is only 4 OUNCES. She boated a "whopper" 2.8 OUNCE silver perch, at Cat Island. I am hear to tell you, that fish may as well have been a 1,000 pound marlin. She was so excited to catch a true State Record.

The certification process at the Marine Resources building in Back Bay Biloxi was one of the coolest parts. The biologists weigh, measure, and confirm the species. The angler is interviewed and photographed with their catch. It is done by the book, and very official. After the catch is approved by the Commission of Marine Resources, the angler is mailed an official certificate of the state record catch.

These youth records have just opened up, so there are tons of opportunities for young anglers to get their names in the book. It is a great chance to get the youngsters out on the water, and maybe make them a State Record Holder. No matter if you are out breaking records, or just enjoying a day on the water, have fun and be safe.

Add electrical safety to your water safety checklist.

Be safe around piers and docks. Never use household extension cords near water. And if you see someone being shocked in the water, turn the power off, throw a life ring and call 911.

Ruth's Roots hosts mushroom workshop

Echo staff photos by Geoff Belcher

Writer and creative woodturner Al Reisz of Waveland on Monday helped volunteers at Ruth's Roots prepare several logs to cultivate edible mushrooms. Ruth's Roots was established in 2016 and is located on the property of Jim and the late Ruth Thompson on Court Street in Bay St. Louis. It was the former location of Ruth's Cakery, garden caretaker Elise Deano said. In addition to being a writer, artist and furniture-maker, Reisz is an avid student of mycology, the science of fungi. To prepare the logs to host the mushrooms, Reisz sealed both ends of each log with a wax emulsion, then drilled a series of holes into each one. He then showed the volunteers -- including Deano, Tami L. Munsch and Rachael Ramsey -- how to hammer plugs loaded with mushroom spores into the holes. Reisz said the mushrooms should start "fruiting" from the logs in about 10 months to a year.

This is a Dinosaur!

A Tyrannosaurus to be exact. T-Rex was a large, ferocious meat eating creature which became extinct 65 million years ago as the result of the impact of a large meteorite.

Newspapers are NOT dinosaurs!

Radio. Then television. Later cable news. Now social media. Each one in its time was rumored to be the end of newspapers. Hasn't happened.

Advertise your business on social media sites and your friends might see it. Put that message in the newspaper and the entire community will see it. Which one do you really think will get the best results?

CALIFORNIA DRAWSTRINGS

Owner of California Drawstrings Linda Keenan will tell you her boutique specializing in cotton, linen, and silk doesn't have much to do with California. In fact, her company has been firmly rooted in the Gulf South since 1984 when Keenan had her entrepreneur moment at the 1984 World's Fair in New Orleans.

"I was working in real estate in North Carolina when I saw this fabulous line of linen clothing at a boat show," said Keenan. "I knew I wanted to continue my real estate career and move to New Orleans, but I thought people visiting for the World's Fair weren't going to understand the heat and humidity. I thought I could earn some extra money by selling this cool clothing line in the French Market and it just really took off."

In the beginning, California Drawstrings focused on two or three lines of clothing, but now it stocks about 50 different vendors.

"We are always looking for what's new and different in the marketplace," Keenan explains. "We still carry old standbys like Flax and Matchpoint, but we have found other great boutique lines like Cut Loose, April Cornell, and Fridaze's wrinkle-resistant linen. We have the largest selection of linen and cotton on the Gulf Coast. We're a niche retailer. We're not everything to everybody, but in the natural fiber clothing line, we have a huge selection, and various sizes."

Keenan quickly outgrew her French Market booth and moved into the French Quarter and Covington. Today her store on Royal Street in New Orleans is a well-known spot for both men and women to pick up the best in resort wear—shirts, pants, shorts, dresses, skirts, outerwear, accessories. No matter how high temperatures rise, California Drawstrings has something for everyone to be comfortable and stylish.

"One day Nancy Moynan of Lulu's called me saying the mayor of Bay St. Louis told her about my shop and they thought it would be a good fit for Bay St. Louis," Keenan said. "I went to see her space at Maggie May's and opened a Bay St. Louis branch in Maggie Mays's in 2012." Just as Keenan faced the familiar problem of outgrowing the space a couple of years later, she heard of a business for sale on Main Street. She saw the building and immediately made an offer.

"We have so much more space in our BSL location--and lots of parking, too."

"We get a lot of repeat customers, and it is not unusual to sit down with customers and just chat late in the afternoon. Just today a repeat customer walked in and asked for a glass of wine!" Besides being a picturesque beach town, what she loves about Bay St. Louis is the people.

"The people I meet in the store are probably the most rewarding aspect of owning the shop."

"I just know Bay St. Louis is a place I want to spend the rest of my life," Keenan said. "I'll never really retire, but the pace is so much easier here than in New Orleans. And after a while you just appreciate not having to worry about things like parking."

"I feel like I have the greatest sales team and the greatest managers," Keenan said. "They look after the stores as if they were their own. The greatest compliment you can give me is that you love my staff. They are truly like family to me watching out for what's best for all of us. I can't be in three places at once."

Betty Krieger, manager, has been with Keenan since she opened the BSL shop. When Betty retires in June 2018, Stephanie Cooper will take over as manager.

"And to think I literally started with two tables and $1,500 at the French Market."

On Second Saturday, June 9, California Drawstrings will give away a pair of sunglasses with every purchase. The Renegades, a five-piece variety band that plays classic and current songs in the categories of dance, rock, contemporary, and country music, will perform between 4:00 and 8:00 pm.

COLORS FLOW AT GALLERY 220 – AND ARTISTS SUPPORT CHILDREN'S CREATIVE CAMP

June in Bay St. Louis brings hot temperatures, sandy swimsuits and the taste of saltwater. It also brings together two of the Bay's top artists, painters Barbara Brodtmann and Janet Densmore. The pair will be featured this month at Gallery 220 Main, showcasing their new paintings during the entire month.

The gallery front window offers a prelude to what's ahead from the two talents. It is stylized with colorful dripping paint tubes framing the creative works of Barbara and Janet. Join them on Saturday, June 9, from 5-8 pm, during the Second Saturday Art Walk and meet the artists as you view their latest works.

Barbara Brodtmann creates unique impressions of life on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Her subjects range from horn blowing Jazz musicians to beach strutting Sandpipers, all the while capturing the unique colors and light with her favorite mediums of watercolor and acrylic. In addition to her paintings, Barbara has a long history of teaching art, to both children and adults and many have attended her popular Wine, Women and Watercolor sessions.

Janet Densmore will be showing more of her acrylic altered landscapes and beach scenes that change color by means of transparent pigments and minerals. Some images shift from vibrant neorealism to linear abstraction as the viewer moves closer to the paintings. In her smaller paintings and sculptures, Janet pushes the classic genre of still life to hilarious extremes in works she likes to call "Food For Thought," with titles like "Confronting GMO" and "Cutting Down On Fats."

Everyone is invited to join in the creative energy at Gallery 220 Main, home to over 25 local artists. June Second Saturday at the Gallery offers live music from Dave Holt and Friends, delicious food and good company. Find us at 220 Main St., Bay St. Louis, MS, just two blocks north of the beach. Call 228-466-6347 for additional information.

Gallery 220 Main, and MAP (Music, Arts and Practicality) of Hancock Co. have been working together since last March, when the co-operative art gallery had its grand re-opening. Artist Amy Kramer created an acrylic on canvas banner that has been featured in the front window of the gallery since the re-opening. Knowing the window would be reset for summer, Kramer and gallery artists decided to raffle the painting, with all funds going to the MAP summer camp program. The $5 raffle tickets will be available for purchase until the drawing, which will take place on Saturday, June 9 at 7 pm in the gallery showroom.

MAP states its mission is to, "provide an enriching environment at no cost for children in grades K-12 and to explore and learn Music, Arts, and Practicality (Life Skills) by establishing a multicultural Children's Theater and Children's Choir." This year's production is, "Shrek, Jr. the Musical" and will be performed later in the summer. MAP is a 501c3 non-profit organization and operates with a volunteer staff. It offers a four to six-week summer camp experience for children who would not normally be able to attend camp due to finances.

MAP representatives and children, along with Gallery 220 artists invite you to join us for this special event. Please call, (228) 466-6347 for additional information or visit our Facebook page for current happenings. Gallery 220 Main is located 2 ? blocks north of the beach in Old Town Bay St, Louis, MS. The co-operative art gallery is home to over 25 Gulf Coast artist, offering eclectic to fine art in several mediums, including pastel, watercolor, pottery, jewelry, mosaics, photography, acrylic and sculpture.

Benefit for Bay firefighter

SEA COAST ECHO

The Bay St. Louis Fire Department and the Blue Knights motorcycle club have scheduled a fundraiser for firefighter Michael Guitreau on June 16 beginning at 11 a.m. at Dan B's and the Bay St. Louis Municipal Harbor. The event will feature a pub crawl; classic car and bike show; live bands; and a silent auction.

"We are taking donations such as artwork, oil changes and gift certificates at the fire station," BSL Deputy Fire Chief Ronald Avery said.

Guitreau, a Bay fireman for the past three years, was injured on his way to work last month in a motorcycle accident on Highway 603 at the Kiln-

Waveland Cutoff Road.

Both of Guitreau's legs were badly broken and his spleen ruptured, Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Monty Strong said. He has already required several surgeries and will also receive more as he continues to recover.

Anyone who would like to donate to Guitreau and his family can contact Strong and Avery at 228-467-4736.

Hancock Youth Leadership Academy graduates 23 junior high leaders

Elisabeth Moar (Hancock), Brandon Griffith (Saint Stanislaus), Urbano Mendez (B/W Middle), Keegan Leverett (Saint Stanislaus), Rachel Rowe (Hancock) and Maci Ladner (Hancock) present Shawn Cagle, RN with a basket of goodies for all of the nurses at Ochsner Medical Center – Hancock.

SEA COAST ECHO

The Hancock Youth Leadership Academy (HYLA) held a graduation ceremony for its seventh class of junior high students on Wednesday, May 9, 2018 at St. Stanislaus' College Cafe. The graduation was the culmination of a program that began in January. Twenty-three bright young students displaying strong leadership potential from all four area middle schools were chosen to participate in the program. Over the course of the last five months, HYLA students engaged in a series of sessions that developed and strengthened their self-awareness and leadership styles, exposed them to local government and county and municipal administration to promote civic engagement, increased their awareness of the importance of small business and industry to the health of the community, and demonstrated the role of the arts in sustaining a community's culture.

The graduation ceremony was held immediately after the final session of the program, and was sponsored by Walmart and Pet Haven Veterinary Hospital. To start the day, the young leaders completed service projects that they planned. One project included a "Color Run" benefitting St. Jude. Students received pledges prior to their run and raised $254 for St. Jude! The second group organized the "Cookie Credit for the Medics". In association with National Nurses Week, this group of students prepared homemade goodies and delivered them to the nurses at Ochsner Medical Center – Hancock. This group of students also honored fire fighters by delivering similar goods to the Bay St. Louis Fire Department. The final group of students organized a "Special Day for Special Needs". These students traveled to North Bay Elementary where they read a book to special needs students and participated in an art activity related to the book. The students also brought snacks for the students and accompanied them on the playground.

Students then learned first-hand what services and resources were available in the community by participating in an activity to understand the complex situations faced by the many families who interact with the social service system. This session's activities provided the springboard to launch the students from the program, as they are now set to enter high school as young leaders with cultural sensitivity and a firm understanding of their community's assets and resources.

"I am amazed every year at the service projects these young leaders plan and implement. Service is such an important aspect of leadership development and I could not be more pleased that they took their projects so seriously," said Rhonda Rhodes, President of the Hancock Resource Center, who founded the Hancock Youth Leadership Academy in 2012.

The Hancock Youth Leadership Academy is the first county-wide youth leadership program in Hancock County. HYLA extends sincere appreciation to the generous sponsors of the 2018 program: Accelerated Physical Therapy, David Bassett, (Picture #1) Devin Graham (OLA), Adisson Capo (OLA), Haley Cox (OLA), Brandon Rhodes (Saint Stanislaus), Ryan Ladner (Hancock), Gus Breisacher (Saint Stanislaus), and Christian Bourgeois (Saint Stanislaus) prepare to begin the "Color Run", which raised $254 for St. Jude.

HYLA students Naomi Robertson (B/W Middle) and Allie Lindsey (Hancock) read "The Hungry Caterpillar" to special needs students at North Bay Elementary.
